

Sacred Space

Susannah Wesley, a busy mother with no privacy, would sit in a rocking chair with an apron over her head praying while John and Charles and the rest of her large family played around her ...

Mahatma Gandhi loved to sit in front of his spinning wheel, which reminded him of the life of struggle for the poor ...

Precious Ramotswe, in “The No. 1 Ladies’ Detective Agency” books by Alexander McCall Smith, found her space to mull and ponder under a nearby Acacia Tree ...

Where do you find YOUR sacred space?